Road Renamed To Suit Agnew

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 30 (AP)—Responding to a complaint by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, the Memphis Shelby County Airport Authority has changed the name of a city street.

Agnew was openly dismayed last fall when he arrived for groundbreaking ceremonies for a $14-million Internal Revenue Service computer center and found the facility was to be built on Democrat Road.

E. W. Cook, airport authority chairman, said Friday the authority has changed the name of a street just west of the IRS center to Republican Road.

Now, the center, on Airport Authority property, will be on the corner of Democrat and Republican roads.
